Notes

William Hung grew up with nothing on Atsah. No family farm, no prospects, just street smarts and a mouth that moved faster than his brain. At 18, he stowed away on a freighter hidden in a cargo container of blue yak cheese. Captain Mira Vasquez found him and gave him a chance instead of an airlock.

Eight years later, at 26, he mustered out as a junior purser with 30,000 credits and a ground car won in a card game. He tried to join the military, looking for something different, but they rejected...
